

Quarterly fund update - March 2024

Investment approach for each Fund

- invests via a selection of expert asset managers that specialise in managing specific asset classes. Sandhurst will invest the Fund's assets across a variety of asset classes
- together through the selection of expert asset managers and the asset allocation, Sandhurst will seek to meet or exceed the investment return objective of each Fund
- aims to provide a total return after fees in excess of a stated percentage above inflation over a full market cycle (typically 7 to 10 years).

Performance commentary

Returns for the quarter across the Funds were strong, on the back of buoyant equity markets driven by the increasing probability of a soft landing. A soft landing implies a return to average inflation, without a significant slowdown in the economy. Over the quarter on a relative perspective detracting from performance was the exposure to alternative investments in Riparian Water and Duxton agriculture, in which these Funds are designed to hold a low correlation to listed equity markets. DNR Australian Emerging Companies was the strongest performer from the active manager suite, while the Funds tactical tilts in Japanese equities favourably benefited the Funds, as well as the underweight to global fixed income. Over the quarter Japanese Nikkei climbed 20.7%, aided by a depreciating Japanese Yen, rising Japanese incomes and supportive monetary policy, in which are all factors that support earnings growth in the region. Further aiding the Funds was the positioning in gold. An important feature of the Bendigo Diversified Funds relative to peers, is the inclusion of a gold exposure under the alternative's asset class. Gold provides great diversification to that of fixed income and equities, in which it covers a range of geopolitical and monetary risks.

Economic commentary

The past quarter was a strong quarter for risk assets with Australian shares up 5.3% (S&P ASX 300 accumulation Index), global shares rose 10.1% (MSCI World Ex Australia Hedged AUD Total Return Index), gold was up 8.1%, while global fixed income fell -0.3% (Bloomberg Global Aggregate Total Return Index Hedged AUD) and Australian fixed income returned a modest 1.0% (Bloomberg AusBond Composite Index).

Risk assets have run sharply higher since last November. Driving the rally has been central bank communication regarding the possibility of sooner interest rate cuts, as well as favourable liquidity conditions. The backdrop relative to historical periods is one of high asset values and wealth, propped up by post covid stimulus. This combined with high global debt levels, results in markets that are highly sensitive to changes in interest rates and liquidity conditions. Over the past two years investments have experienced extreme volatility and we expect that looking forward central bank policy and government fiscal impacts will continue to amplify markets.

Throughout 2023, markets were favoured by falling inflation rates and surprisingly strong economic growth particularly in the US. Unlike many global regions, the US has been supported by excessive government fiscal support, combined with a consumer that is insensitive to rising interest rates given long term fixed mortgages. As a result, inflation in the US continues to be sticky and demand robust, with inflation measures for January and February indicating an acceleration in core inflation. Outside of the US a different story persists with weaker consumer demand experienced across Europe, the UK, Japan and Australia.

Within Australia, GDP growth has continued to fall, with the labour market softening. Without the effect of the current large immigration policy, Australia on a per capita basis is in a recession. Looking forward, an economic rebound can be expected in the event the RBA cash rate is reduced, in which markets, being forward looking, continue to front run.

Sandhurst Strategic Income Fund - Class B units

Quarterly fund update - March 2024

Investment approach

The Fund aims to provide customers with regular income and may offer higher returns with a lower level of risk through the market cycle in an effort to outperform a static investment in similar assets by strategically managing its portfolio in varying market and economic conditions.

The objective of the Fund is to outperform its benchmark (after fees) over any two year period.

Foresight Analytics has assigned a SUPERIOR investment rating with a product complexity indicator designating the Fund as a Relatively Simple Product.<sup>2</sup>

Portfolio performance

The Sandhurst Strategic Income Fund (Class B units) delivered an annualised return of 5.93% (after fees) through the quarter ending 31 March 2024. The Fund continues to outperform its benchmark and the running yield of the Fund was 5.55% at the end of the quarter.

Early 2024 saw a continuation of the trends that financial markets exhibited in late 2023 as credit continued to perform strongly despite elevated levels of issuance compared to recent years and the rally in equities persisted.

Inflation in Australia declined more in the December quarter than was expected by the RBA and the RBA Board acknowledged that data had given them more confidence of returning inflation to target. As a result, the case to hold the cash rate at 4.35% outweighed the need to hike. However, recent data that has followed their latest meeting indicates that inflationary pressures could remain above their expectations which has led to the market delaying its forecast for rate cuts.

Corporate earnings in Australia highlighted that credit fundamentals for Australia continue to remain robust despite elevated yields. There are limited rating downgrade pressures for local issuers through the rate hiking cycle and the March quarter saw S&P upgrade credit ratings for various Australian banks. S&P's upgrade was due to their assessment that "the continued strengthening of regulatory and governance standards in the Australian banking sector has reduced industrywide risks".

More recently the combination of geopolitical tensions and elevated US inflation economic data led to a slight deterioration in pricing of risk assets. Offshore credit weakened whilst Australian credit has to date remained largely unaffected. Markets remain cautious and are closely observing the conflict between Israel and Iran.

There are currently no unrated assets in the Fund and more than 75% of exposures are rated AA- or higher. At the end of March, 27% of the portfolio is allocated to cash and bank deposits, 42% in bank/corporate bonds with 31% allocated to asset backed securities.

Bendigo Socially Responsible Growth Fund

Quarterly fund update - March 2024

Investment objective and return

The Fund invests via a selection of expert asset managers that specialise in managing specific asset classes and which take into account environmental, social, ethical and governance (ESG) considerations in their asset selection. The Fund targets a minimum level of 75% of the total assets of the Fund being managed by asset managers that take into account ESG considerations in their investment decisions. The Fund has an objective of entirely excluding investments in companies that produce or manufacture tobacco products and controversial weapons. Examples of tobacco products are nicotine alternatives (i.e. electronic cigarettes) and tobacco-based products (e.g. cigarettes, cigars). Examples of controversial weapons are anti-personnel mines, biological and chemical weapons, cluster weapons, depleted uranium and nuclear weapons. Other activities Sandhurst monitors and aims to reduce are adult entertainment, alcohol, gambling, non-pharmaceutical animal testing and companies with high event controversy.

ESG considerations are primarily applied to listed shares (both Australian and International) and fixed interest. The screening criteria applied to the Fund does not consider derivatives or certain underlying assets, including inflation-linked and government bonds, property and unlisted assets. The investment portfolio is constructed in a manner that Sandhurst believes will meet the investment return objective of a return after fees in excess of 4% above inflation over a 10 year period.

Portfolio Performance

Returns for the quarter were strong on an absolute and peer relative perspective. Equity markets drove the Fund higher as global central bank communication raised the hopes of rate cuts sooner, with the market swiftly pricing a high probability of a soft landing. A soft landing implies a return to average inflation, without a significant slowdown in the economy. The Fund has had strong contributions via Australian Unity Future of Healthcare, which has outperformed both the Australian and global equity benchmark. Further tactical tilts to global equities over Australian shares and an underweight to fixed income assets has aided returns.

Economic commentary

The past quarter was a strong quarter for risk assets with Australian shares up 5.3% (S&P ASX 300 accumulation Index), global shares rose 10.1% (MSCI World Ex Australia Hedged AUD Total Return Index), gold was up 8.1%, while global fixed income fell -0.3% (Bloomberg Global Aggregate Total Return Index Hedged AUD) and Australian fixed income returned a modest 1.0% (Bloomberg AusBond Composite Index).
